Presents:

The Essentials of Parent Representation: A Two Day Training for Attorneys Representing Parents in Child Protective Proceedings

September 1-2, 2010

Weber's Inn, Ann Arbor, Michigan

This two day training will cover the essentials of representing parents in child welfare proceedings. The first day will focus on substantive statutory and constitutional law, discovery and investigation practices, administrative practice, and other aspects of parent advocacy. The second day will be an interactive forum concentrating on trial-related skills. Presenters include Professors Joshua Kay and Vivek Sankaran of the University of Michigan Child Advocacy Clinic, Tracy Green, Managing Attorney of the Detroit Center for Family Advocacy, and staff from the American Bar Association Center on Children and the Law. Space for this training is limited and preference will be given to attorneys with under three years of experience.

Contact Heather Leidi at 517-373-5322 or LeidiH@courts.mi.gov with questions. Early registration is not available.

Registration information will be sent out in June.
